Hegelman and Connors Will Test Little Noremac.

THE SCOT STILL LEADS.

A Local Bare Knuckle Fight Yesterday Morning.

PITTSBURGS BEATEN

Old Galvin Merrily Touched Up by the Colonels.

GENERAL SPORTING NEWS OF THE DAY

The majority of people who are interested in the pedestrian contest at the Central Rink, seem to look upon Noremac as a sure winner. Certainly if poolselling had been allowed there would have been thousands of dollars invested on his chance of victory. There is an old saying, however, to the effect that there is nothing so uncertain as certainties, and it may be so in the race in question. At present Noremac is leading, but his lead is really so small that he is by no means a certain winner. Last evening he was only a little over four miles ahead of Hegelman and about five in front of Conners. A lead of this kind amounts to very little in a night and day race. Both Hegelman and Connors are going well, particularly the latter.

The trio made things extremely lively and exciting all day yesterday. Hour after hour they ambled round the track until the thousands of spectators wondered whether or not there is any limit to human endurance. Noremac is certainly a wonderful and gritty little man, and his two rivals stuck to him like two shadows. If the Scotchman wins he will certainly have recollections of being in a race Present intentions are to test him thoroughly that is if Hegelman and Connors can do it Jimmy Taylor, one of the attendants of Hegel man and Conners, said last evening:

BOTH IN GOOD SHAPE. "Our two boys are feeling tolerably well and they intend to either crack themselves or crack mac after they are certain of getting over the 475-mile mark. We are aware that Nore mac is a very tough man to tackle, but there is nothing won without an effort." It would seem from the above statement that both Hegelman and Connors intend to make a final and big effort, that is if they can hold to gether long enough. They are running as a every legitimate way. Noremac, however, is a reteran at the game and is aware of all the moves that are going on. He watches Hegelman like a hawk, and when the latter leaves the track so does Noremac. The race is desperate and exciting at every stage. Of course Noremac like anybody else is liable to collapse at any stage, but he is full of confidence. It seems safe to say that from to-day to the finish the struggle will be one of the keenest witessed here, Horan, the youth of 18 summers, is still plod-

Horan, the youth of 18 summers, is still plodding his weary way like a little hero. His grit has made him a general favorite and he is the object of as much applause as any other contestant. He seems certain to get over the limit and he deserves to be a good winner. Messier looked a complete wreck yesterday, he is suffering intensety from a sick stomach. He gets a share of the money. Adams can get money if he exerts himself as some others are dolors.

Probably Peter Golden is displaying more pluck than anybody on the track. He has been somewhat of a disappointment in this race, but his sufferings are severer than those of any other man in the race. He fainted two or three times yesterday and his agony was awful. His feet, legs and stomach are all in very bad condition. He means to reach 475 miles, however, or drop on the track. Cartwright is no longer a dangerous man, as he has been overtaken by sickness. Little Sammy bay and his smiling face have disappeared from the contest. Last evening Sammy reasoned as follows:

HE BROKE DOWN.

"I played myself out in covering the first 200 | the Springfield Tri-State team to-day, with roke down, and it takes so long to recover that it is useless for me to expect to get a piece of the money. I cannot win anything and I don't intend to travel for nothing. When I cannot win I want nothing, and think it best to cannot win I want nothing, and think it best to leave the race."

The attendance last evening was larger than it has been on any evening this week. The building was crowded to excess. The crowd was kept in excellent humor by the spurts of old Norman Taylor and the antics of "Parson"

PRESENTED WITH MONEY. Hegelman left the track at 19:19, and went to have a bath. He reappeared after an absence of 2-46 minutes, and ran three miles making the first in eight minutes. When he resumed his journey both Noremac and Conners were off the track. The latter was also having a bath, and had left the track in second place: Noremac was only off a half hour, and he rejoined Hegelman when the latter had gotten within four miles and a half of him. When Noremac got warmed up some fine spurting commenced and one enthusiastic admirer of the little Scotchman handed him a $10 bill. Hegelman had friends and a minute later he was also made equal with Noremac in the bill way. Shortly after 1 o'clock Hegelman retired and left only Noremac and Tilly and Brown on the track. Noremac disappeared when he had made the distance between himself and Hegelman an even five miles. Country reappeared at 120, after an absence of one hour and 30 minutes. Messier became very sick and a physician had to be summoned. He expects to be all right, however, to reach the limit. "Parson" Tilly was doing his somersaults at 1:45. Hegelman was on the track again at 1:25. Noremac was only off a Hegelman was on the track again at 125 Golden also had a bath and was obserred when he reappeared on the track at 1:20, after an ab-sence of an hour and 45 minutes. WITH BARE FISTS.

A Rattling Pight in the Twelfth Ward-The Winner Challenged.

was a rattling bare knuckle fight in the Twelfth ward early yesterday morning be-tween Jack Jenks and W. Sommers, both of Allegheny. The encounter took place in a stable, and was witnessed by about a dozen sports. The stakes were $50 a side. The men fought at catch weight, Jenks weighing about 170 pounds and Sommers a few pounds lighter. Queensberry rules governed. The battle only lasted three rounds, but it was lively during that time. Jenks was too strong lively during that time. Jenks was too strong and a trifle too clever for his man, and administered severe punishment. In the third round he caught Sommers on the jaw with a swinging blow, and ended the fight.

Last evening the backer of William Bissell called at this office and left the following challenge, accompanied by a forfeit of $10:

"William Bissell will fight Jack Jenks, who defeated Sommers, for $100 a side, at catch weight. A forfeit of $10 is now put up in The Disparch office, and will remain there for a week, so that the Jenks party can have a chance to cover it and name a date of meeting."

Kilrain's Challenge.

The following is a copy of the challenge Jake Kilrain, the champion, has issued in the Sport-my game, and the sooner we get together and arrange a date for a contest the better pleased I shall be. I do not wish for any newspaper controversy; all I want is a straightforward match. The same articles at the last match (£1,000 a side, the Police Guestie diamond belt and championship of the world) will suit me admirably, with only one alteration—that is, fighters to be in the ring between 16 and 12 noon and bar France. I have no lil feeling toward Smith, but there has been a lot of comment and talk about our respective merits, and I should like the much-vexed question to be duly settled. It is purely a matter of business—no ill feeling whatever, international or otherwise. Hoping that Smith or his backers will fix upon a date in the near future, when I feel confident we shall come to terms readily without further palaver or correspondence. my game, and the sooner we get together and ar

INPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH.1 LOUISVILLE, April 11.-The Louisvilles adinistered another defeat to the Alleghenies to-day in the presence of a large crowd. The weather was line, but a high wind was blowing which made it hard on the fielders. For a time Galvin's fast and slow balls fooled the local players, but after the third inning they found to trouble in batting him, and piled up a total of 19 bases. Beckley and Kuehne were both off in their work, and Smith made a costly error. Stratton did the twirling for the Louis-villes, and while he was batted freely kept the League men from bunching the hits on him, the nine behind him fielding admirably except in the third inning, when Browning, Esterbrook and Shannon made errors. Shannon, with that single exception, played a brilliant game at second. Weaver made four difficult catches in center field, and Wolf scored a beautiful death. beautiful double play, cutting off Coleman at the third base by a throw from right field. Tomney also played a fine game, and Stratton fielded his position to perfection. Dunlap made a brilliant one-handed stop of a hard hit grounder, and Smith did good work at short.

In the second inning Shannon led off with a hit and Stratton sent a grounder to Galvin, but Beckley muffed the throw and both runners were safe. Tomney made a hit past first and were safe. Tomney made a hit past first and Browning drove a hot one to Smith forcing Stratton out at second. Wolf made a hit and Shannon and Tomney scored.

In the third inning with one man out Sunday reached first on Esterbrook's muff and stole second. Miller hit a long fly to left field which Browning muffed and Sunday scored, Miller going to second. Beckley made a hit and Dunlap tapped a grounder to Stratton who threw Miller out at the plate. Coleman made a hit to right and Beckley and Dunlap scored. In the fourth the Louisvilles made four runs on a base on balls, a double by Esterbrook, a three-bagger by Raymond, and errors by Beckley and Kuehne. They made two more in the seventh on a single by Stratton, Browning's three-bagger and Esterbrook's safe hit, one more score was added in the eighth and another in the ninth.

The Tourists at Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA, April 11.-The Spalding baseball tourists arrived here from Baltimor to-day on the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad 30 minutes behind time. They were met by President Reach and Colonel John I. Rogers of the Philadelphia ball club and a reception commit-tee composed of the Philadelphia Scorers' As-sociation and conveyed to Gloucester ferry. At Gloucester the party sat down to a planked shad dinner as the guests of the Philadelphia club.

Prof. Healy. A messenger was dispatched to find Reagan or his backer, Billy Reid, but neither could be found, and after waiting two hours the Nonparell went to his hotel opposite Fulton Market. He said to a reporter:
"In order to get on a match with Reagan I would be willing to have the fight decided under Marquis of Queensberry rules, although championship battles are invariably decided under London prize ring rules, at which I am perfectly at home. I would be willing to concede Reagan $1.000 of the purse, win or lose, and there certainly could be nothing fairer than that."

Reagan could not be seen last evening, but it was said that he would adhere to his desire no to meet Derapsey until he had fought Mitchel next October.

A PROMISING PUGILIST. Joey McCarty, of This City, Wants an Engagement.

There is another local pugliist likely to come to the front. "The young man is known as "Joey McCarty," and is a lightweight. He has been under the tultion of Prof. Tom Sterck for about three months, and has been such an apt pupil that his friends now want a match for him. He is a Pittsburger, and exceedingly well him. He is a Pittsburger, and exceedingly well built for a lightweight.

Prof. Sterck, who is a good judge of a boxer, deems young "McCarty" a very promising man. Already Sterck has introduced some first-class men to the world, and McCarty may turn out to be another star. At any rate efforts are be-ing made to secure him a match entirely to see whether he is good, bad or indifferent. He is named after a good man, as Joey McCarty was one of the best in his class.

Her father was away from home, and he was informed by a neighbor as he was walking toward his house. One of her sisters had been visiting in Brooklyn, and while on the elevated road bound home was horrified to read of the tragedy. Justine who was the oldest daugh-ter and had been out of health for years, was not in her right mind. She got the big pistol from behind the bar about 10 o'clock in the morning and went upstairs to her mother's room. Her mother came into the house about 15 minutes later and found the girl's body lying across the closed door of the bedroom. The door could not be opened without pushing it away. The pistol lay beside her. On the floor was a scrap of paper with these lines scribbled in German:

Tell nobody that I did it intentionally. Say that the pistol had never lain there, and that I must have handled it carelessly. Many kisses from yours,

OTTAWA, April 11 .- In the House o Commons to-day Mr. Vanasse asked whether the Government was aware that certain cheese dealers in the United States were in the habit of marking on cheese exported by them to England, via Montreal, the words "Cana-dian products," greatly to the detriment of the real Canadian article in the English market, and whether the Government proposes to adopt means to put an end to this fraud, which involves consequences greatly prejudicial to the Canadian producer.

A Successful Co-Partnership

Our notion of the best way to gain your confidence and make low prices is peculiar.

With us, quality marches at the head. There are plenty of goods used in the Clothing trade known as "sellers." They take a buyer's fancy by their fine looks and little price; they bamboozle by appearance. It is only when he comes to wear such clothing that he realizes our great $3 50 line of Men's how big a price that little price was. We shun such goods

> We believe in a valuable article first-fair price next. This is only another way of showing how far our guarantee goes-it begins with the cloth before a stitch or a cut goes into it.

A price is low only when it stands for reliable clothing.

That co-partnership is sure to succeed, we know. WANAMAKER & BROWN,

WHERRY'S IDEA GROWING Republican Lenders May Adopt His Sinking Fund Resolution. (FROM A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.)

HARRISBURG, April 11.-There is rumor abroad that the Republican leaders are considering Mr. Wherry's resolution for the future regulation of the sinking fund, and that they will probably take it up and pass it. The amendment of section 29 of the general revenue bill to decrease the the general revenue hill to decrease the amount of money soing into the sinking fund is interpreted as a move in Mr. Wherry's direction. The amendment was made at the suggestion of the Auditor General. Mr. Wherry, however, says that owing to the large increase of revenues expected from the capital stock tax, the supposed move in his direction is more apparent than real.

Mr. Wherry read the editorial in this morning's DISPATCH on his sinking fund resolution and then said: "I thank THE DISPATCH for its uniform courtesy, and compliment it on its usual accuracy. But had the joint sinking fund resolution been before you, you would have seen that I propose to do the very thing you recommend." Mr. Wherry's resolution follows:

The sinking fand commissioners shall invest on or before June 1. 1889, all of the cash surplus in the sinking fund in United States sper cent bonds, except six months interest on the State deht, and enough to meet any actually pending negotiations for the purchase of State loans, and $220,000 additional, provided such bonds can be purchased at a no higher premium than 20 cents on the dollar, and that after June 1, 1899, the cash surplus in the sinking fund on September 1, December 1, March 1 and sine 1, in cach year, shall be invested in United States sper cent bonds, except six months interest on the State debt, and enough to meet any actually pending negotiations for the purchase of State loans, and $20,000 in addition, provided that the State can thus realize, by purchasing and holding such bonds until maturity, not less than 2 per cent. Per annum. That after August 1, 1894, the sinking fund commissioners shall not purchase any State loans at so high a premum, that the purchase of such State bonds would not realize within one-half of 1 per cent as large an interest as would the purchase of United States is per cent bonds at the market rate at the time the State bonds are offered by the commissioners for purchase to the State, and that, if the State bonds cannot be purchased at a rate showing to within at least one-half of 1 per cent as large a rate of interest as would the purchase of the United States bonds at the market rate, the commissioners for purchase to the State, and that, if the State bonds cannot be purchased at a rate showing to within at least one-half of 1 per cent as large a rate of interest as would the purchase of the United States bonds at the market rate, the commissioners for purchase to the State and Govern than one-half of 1 per cent less than the interest which would be realized from the United States bonds at a rate which would realize to the State an equal interest, or an interest which sh

Philadelphia Soldiers Mustn't Outshine Their Less Favored Brethren. FFROM A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.1 HARRISBURG, April 11. - Governor Beaver and Generals Hartranft, Wiley, Snowden and Hastings, met to-night at Governor Beaver's residence. The Philadelphia regiments that wanted to wear their dress uniforms in the parade in New York will not be permitted to do so. General Hastings, however, is anxious that the entire division shall have a dress uniform to appear in on such oocasions. The spring inspections will be had in April and May. The brigade inspectors will be accompanied by Lleutenant Bean, of the regular army, who is detailed to inspect the guard of the State. Regimental encampments will be held in July and August, the First brigade near Philadelphia, from August 3 to 10, the Second bridage from July 8 to 15, near Pittsburg, the Third brigade from July 15 to 22, at a place afterward to be determined. General Wiley says the Pittsburg regiments will probably be inspected before going to New York, and the other regiments of the Second brigade later. dress uniforms in the parade in New York

Colonel S. W. Hill, Inspector General of the National Gnard, accompanied by Majors Greenland, Moyer and Cullinau, Brigade Quartermaster, left for New York to-night to select quarters for the Pennsylvania troops during the centennial.

On the Scante Appropriations Committee HARRISBURG, April 11 .- The Senate of a school book ring, or that they would give birth to one, were made by representatives of what the authors of the bills call the school book trust or syndicate. The gentlemen feel particularly sore concerning an interview in which Superintendent Luckey, of Pittsburg, spoke to the same effect. Mr. Luckey was also here to talk against the bills. They cliam that the intent of the bills is the direct opposite of what was represented. Dr. Neff's bill permitted the billding of books in State institutions, and he now desires, if he can get it on the calender, to amend it to include the printing.

The bills in general provide for a commission of some kind to edit, compile, or select the books to be used, and give the commission wide latitude in the selection of the books and the purchase of copyrights. It is probably too late rion and Grand Army delegation were here from Philadelphia to-day, and visited the Governor in company with Representaive Stewart, of Philadelphia. Their object was to endeavor to have His Excellency consent to sign the bill giving soldiers preference in pub-lic employment, the bill to be amended to omit specific penalties and making non-compliance a misdemeanor.

ONLY CORRALLED FIVE VOTES.

The Syndicate Schools Make a Peer Showsyndicate schools managed to corral five votes. The bill, as amended to exclude the report unseating Nicolls, the Democrat, and eating Finley, the Republican, was made to the House to-day. It has been a costly to the flouse to-day. It has been standing investigation. Witness fees, stenographic report, the committee's expenses and printing will foot up $14,000.

The committee recommends salaries to both contestants, reasonable compensation to counsel, and the payment of incidental expenses. This will probably bring the cost up to $20,000.
